CONDUIT BENDING SYSTEM

Abstract of th Disclosure

A bend determining system automatically determines the position of a second bend of an offset based upon input offset and angle specifications. The system automatically repeats the angle of a first bend of the offset at the second bend without requiring an installer to remove the conduit from the bender.